Our Wise County Census and

What it Reveals.

EDITOR OF THE BIG STONE GAP POST: The writer desires to call attention to the recent announcement of the census of our county, and to impress upon your readers some idea of the phenominal growth of our population, and of our wonderful physical and material development during the past

The writer first put foot within the their kind remembrance of us. limits of this county in November, her borders at the home of his old just on the eve of her great boom.

She then had no railroads; but the L. & N. and S. A. & O. were both under construction, though something like a year and a half was yet to elapse, ere the trampling hoofs of the iron horse would wake the echoes of the surrounding mountains, and Big Stone Gap would become a ganglion on the nerves of the great world's commercial life.

There was then no East Big Stone Gap, no Furnace, no East Stone Gap -only a little village under the shadows of Imboden Hill and along the rivers near its base-small, but buoy- having a good time in general. ant with expectations. How many of these have been realized, and how many have proved will-o'-the-wisps, that lured but to deceive-who shall playing soldier. We have a valiant cap-

Since that day the marvels of Looney Creek and Stonega have come; and now, where only a scattered mountaineer dwelt in his isolated home, the earth has been honeycombed with mines, and the glare of a thousand coke ovens reddened the midnight sky,

Leaving Big Stone Gap, we passed up the beautiful Powell's Valley, crossed over the mountain at its head, and entered Prince's Flats. We passed a solitary house in the limits of the present town of Norton, and saw that the right of way for the railroad had just been cleared, of joy. Passing Gladeville, the now hustling, beautiful county seat, with its magnificent public and beautiful private buildings-then only an insignificant village of small cheap houses -we pressed on to Guest's Station, then having no indication of a rail-Southwestern Ry. road except the stakes driven to mark out its future path. No Coebure, no Maytown, or Slabtown, or Bondtown-no Tom's Creek-except 2nd. FRIDAY, at 2 P. Further eastward there was no Virginia City, no St. Paul. All these have come in the space of eleven brief years; and many companies with capitals of hundreds of thousandseven millions of dollars-own and operate great plants in various sections of our county. Hundreds of cars a day bear from our borders the products of our mines, our ovens and our forests. But the work of development is only begun-has only touched our Southern border-while back from the railroads lie fabulous treasures yet untouched; but which, when this week developed, must inevitably make our county one of the richest in the state.

Our increase in population has been as wonderful as our material development. While our sister county of Scott has gained only 1000 in population, or a little less than 5 per business trip to this place last week. cent.; while Lee has gained but 1640, or an increase of 9 percent.; and while Tazewell has gained 3713, or nearly 19 per cent.; Wise county has gained 10308, rising from 9345 in 1890 to 19653 in 1900, a gain of turned Saturday. over 110 per cent; so that the little backwoods county of ten years ago, with population enough to entitle her to only one clerk for both circuit and county courts, and necessitating thing that saved him from burying him-the addition of two more counties to self "in the shucks" was the magnificent make a hundredth part of the state's population, and now has over the hundredth part of the state's inhabitants within her own borders, entitling her to a separate member of the House of Delegates of Virginia.

Ten years ago our school population was little over 3000-now it is 7010; then we drew about $4000.00 of state school funds-this year over $10,000.00; then we had about thirty five public schools-now over Sev-

GOOD THINGS

Sent to Home Industrial Girls at Asheville, N. C.

Below we give a letter of thanks written by the girls' Industrial School at Asheville, N. C., to a certain good couple in Big Stone Gap, who sent a lot of good things, including a dressed pig ("Charles the First") to the school for the girls' Thanksgiving dinner.

There are one hundred and fifty girls in the school and the letter explains how they enjoyed the 29th of November: Home Industrial School, Asheville, N. C. Nov. 30, 1900.

Dear Mr. and Mrs .-We, the pupils of the Home Industrial School, desire to send you a vote of thanks for "Charles the First," which we all enjoyed exceedingly well on Thanksgiving

We ate it only as girls with royal appe-tites can eat pork and not without grateful hearts to our unknown friends for

Perhaps you would be interested to 1889, spending his first night within know something of how we spent the day. We had school work up to eleven o'clock her borders at the home of his old and then till twelve had a patriotic exer-friend. Robert Jones, on the banks of cise and an address from Miss Stephenson Powell's river in your town-then I on the many things we have to be thankbelieve known as Imboden City, and ful for. After which we were excused to do as we wished till "Charles the First" and the turkeys were done-there were nine turkeys.

The bell rung at one o'clock, none too soon for we were all quite hungry, having abstained from a heavy breakfast on that account.

We were very glad to have the teachers dine with us on that occasion. The din-ing room was beautifully decorated with evergreens and it all seemed really quite

The dinner consisted of pig, turkey, pumpkin, mashed potatoes, gravy, cranberry and Chili sauce, after which came mince pie, candy and peanuts, of which we all ate to our entire satisfaction. We stayed at the table an hour and a quarter, but were not eating all that time, just

We had holiday that afternoon. The teachers went driving, and the girls did various things too numerous to mention; but we think the best sport we had was entertainment which was enjoyed by all. Though the scarlet fever prevented our going away, we enjoyed Thanksgiving fully as much, and anticipate having a better time Christmas as we have nearly three weeks vacation.

We think all danger of contagion is over, as they have taken the placard away. We do not wish to tire you with our letter, so thanking you again for "Charles ly ill with a complication of diseases the First," we are, Your grateful friends,
